

Main Description of house.

a large stone three story house in the harbor district of Stormwind. There is a small tower on the back of the building, which Forgewalker has turned into his "Lodge" there are four main rooms on the first floor is the study, the kitchen, the formal dining room, and Loreley's bedroom.

out the back is a large courtyard, half covered by a roof, half open. under the roof are several mount stalls and stables for Forgewalker's pets.

the second floor is the personal living quarters for Killean and Alyanaa.

the third floor is alyanaa's personal training/meditation room, with practice dummies, and removable pads for the floor. There are also holy symbols engraved into the stone of the walls, set with gold.

Main Study

This is the largest room in the house.

there are shelves surrounding the entire room, except for where there are items hanging on the wall there are 4 plush velvet chairs, each with an accompanying table and lamp.

The lamps are of Dalaran make, using no flame to create light, instead crystals light up on command to various light intensities.

there is also a large fire-place with a mantle in the wall opposite the door.

The staffs are hanging vertically on the wall, in glass cases.

Soulkeeper, Staff of the Twin worlds, and Conjurer's Staff are in slightly larger cases due to their design, the matching staffs are on either side of the fireplace
